of the Morris Fell Association until his death.

Ever ready to support any measure that he believed to be of benefit to the town, he was a fellow well met and was always addressed as George by his friends, young and old.

Many a person will remember the helping hand that he extended to them in times of need.

He was for many years a member of Plover Lodge F. & A. M.

A large concourse of friends assembled to pay their last tribute of respect at his funeral which was held at his late residence, Wednesday, February 10, Rev. F. G. Leonard of the Universalist church officiating, speaking from the text: "Death is swallowed up in victory."

Interment was in the family plot in Huntington cemetery.

Mr. Fultz is survived by one brother, James Fultz of this village, and two nephews, Richard Fultz and Leo Fultz, both successful business men of Seneca.

God of the living, in whose eyes Unveiled to thy whole creation these souls are thine; we must not say That these are dead who pass away;
