New Industry Negotiating for Purchase of Linn Plant Here

May Expand Operation If Deal is Closed

Deal of Linn Plant and Truck Plant in West End to another industry, which may operate it on a larger scale, is under negotiation, it was announced yesterday by Manager William Bush.

Mr. Bush said there is a good chance that the transaction will be completed, and that the plant will continue in operation where Linn leaves off.

The Linn company will discontinue operation here, it was announced. Mr. Bush said the plant will be sold to a new owner, who will operate it on a larger scale, it was announced yesterday after a two-hour visit here by the new owner.

At present, the Linn plant is finishing work on about 200 units, which will be shipped to the new owner, who will operate it on a larger scale, it was announced yesterday.

These jobs will be finished in mid-May, Mr. Bush said, and all other work and work of work will be turned over to June 1, he added.

Since the plant was taken over eight years ago, it has been in one contract with one owner, mostly government contracts, since the government took over in 1945, he said.

The plant now has 150 employees, and will have 100 to 120, he said.
